

THE PAGE THAT IS COLOURFUL AND VIBRA

Connecting through art

The vivacious Falguni Gokhale seems to be adding more colour to her life. The three days spent this week at Delhi's Pragati Maidan for the prestigious United Art Fair 2013, was blissfully eventful for the city-based designer-artist. And besides, getting to know the right (art gallery) people in the capital, she confesses to this diarist she had "a great time networking with fellow artists. It was a time of sharing and exchanging ideas!" The art fair, expectedly, was a melange of colours, with talented artists displaying their paintings, sculptures, graphic, folk, tribal art and more. Falguni herself displayed some of her paintings and sculptures at the show, and the response she got was heartening. Considering she was the only one from the city to make it there, that must have buoyed her to another level - her smile just got wider!